Answer Key

to Supplemental Admissions Questionnaire

Why are we giving you an open-book test? It is similar to a driver's license examination. You get the questions and answers ahead of time because the goal is not to flunk applicants, but rather to make sure they read and understand the lesson. Everyone of those questions deal with real-life questions and concerns we will ultimately have with parents at Grace Classical Christian Academy. When you read these answers which reflect the school's philosophy, you may wholeheartedly agree, or you may not agree at all. If you do not agree, then you have three choices of action. First, you can decide not to enroll your child and choose another school more in keeping with your philosophy. Second, you can be honest about your disagreement, but plan to go along with our philosophy of education. Third, you can agree and figure you can always object later.

If this is not a school you can appreciate unreservedly (or at least tolerably) and support without major changes, the best course would be to back out gracefully now. The Scripture requires parents to be active leaders in the education of their children, but that responsibility does not include trying to reshape an entire class or institution to fit your individual preferences. Positive criticism and ideas are always welcome, especially when they are in line with our adopted philosophy. We are eager to answer any questions you may have which will help you make a good decision.

1. You would be surprised how often a parent will object to one facet of the curriculum. They may love the reading program, but do not see why their child has to memorize, or take Latin, or follow the dress code. We have had to make choices over the years concerning our curriculum, and we think they have been good ones. We expect parents to support them. We are constantly seeking to upgrade the curriculum. However, no aspect of the curriculum is optional, and school policies should be willingly obeyed. If your attitude is not supportive, your child will pick it up, and this will be reflected in his work and attitude at school.

2. Conflicts should be resolved at the lowest level possible, in accordance with Matthew 18. If you have a problem with a teacher, the principal, a board member, or other parents, you must first meet with the person involved, and if an agreement cannot be reached, both parties should then approach the next level of authority. You should not gossip with other parents about a problem.

3. Answers to this question will vary from family to family and child to child. We would like to get an idea of what values are important to your family.

4. Wise parents will not contribute to modern society's worship of success by paying too much attention to the outward marks of achievement. Our goal is for every student to do his best, to work to his potential in every area. Not every student can high jump seven feet, and not every student can make the honor roll at Grace Classical Christian Academy. All students have their strengths and their weaknesses.

5. One of Grace Classical Christian Academy's greatest strengths is academic excellence. Our curriculum goals demand much effort from every student. Parents of students who must work harder to keep up with the academic demands may well need to limit extracurricular activities and insist on completion of homework on some night. We do not work academics around our extracurricular activities; studies come first.

6. We have set certain guidelines for homework. We base these guidelines on what we have come to believe are reasonable, necessary amounts for most students. We also highly value family time and will do all we can to respect it. If your student uses the time given in class to work, normally he should not have an excessive amount of homework.

7. Students transferring in and out of GCCA will often find that good grades are harder to come by at this school. A grade of "C" may represent average achievement at GCCA, but may also represent excellent effort by a given student. That student should not be made to feel inferior by a parent's expectation for higher marks. If you want uniformly high grades, this may not be the school for you. If you want high achievement, it is.

8. A teacher's attention is never going to be evenly divided among students; nor is a parent's among his own children. There is, however, a point where we are being unfair to the compliant majority. This is a small school with a conservative budget and limited resources, and we simply cannot be all things to all people.

9. There is not a right answer here, of course. We want to know what is important to your family.

10. A great school needs the active participation of parents. Everyone has skills or knowledge which contribute to advancing our educational mission.
